

UCA TRIVIA

Dear followers, fans, and everyone in between,

We at UCATrivia strive to entertain and add a comical twist on current affairs in and outside of the University.

Although it has been fun to 'break' news stories that come to us on our desk, it has come to our attention that a number of people - followers and / or otherwise – feel discomforted by our tweets.

Firstly, we solemnly apologise for any offense we may have unintentionally caused. We gladly welcome feedback via direct messages on Twitter, emails sent to ucatrivia@gmail.com, or any other means that can get to us. All complaints and comments will be kept anonymous and treated with the utmost importance.

Secondly, UCATrivia has absolutely no connection with the University itself, any of its affiliates, or any professional entity related to the University.

We also would like to clarify that none of the tweets that we have reported on are true; they act merely as jovial entertainment anecdotes. (Well, maybe not the one about Eddie Quin). Again, we would like to reiterate that we welcome any form of feedback and / or complaints that may arise.

We hope to continue our service and continue to make UCA laugh.

Yours sincerely,

The UCATrivia Team
